What Is Feedback?

Information you receive in response to actions or behaviors you have taken or have shown others.

Ladder of Inference

Our Belief System

- Our beliefs are the truth
- The truth is obvious
- Our beliefs are based on real data
- The data we select are the real data

How We Move Up the Ladder

- Take action
- Adopt beliefs
- Draw conclusions
- Make assumptions
- Add meanings
- Select data
- Observable data

How to Give Effective Feedback

Situation → Behavior → Impact

Situation

- Anchors feedback in time and place
- Helps person to whom the feedback is being given understand the context

Example: “When you presented our March sales figures to the senior management team last Thursday, ...”

Behavior

- Allows person receiving feedback to know specifically how they behaved
- Behaviors are things that can be recorded visually or aurally

Example: “... You spoke clearly and concisely. You gave enough detail to make your point and you answered questions directly ...”

Impact

- Thoughts, feelings, and actions we take as a result of people's behaviors
 - Emotionally
 - On the task
 - On the group

Example: "... Consequently, the CEO approved the plan and gave it full funding. Additionally I had been uncertain about it before and thought differently."

Practice

Situation → Behavior → Impact

Suggestions for Gathering Feedback

- Collect one observation per person per day
- Notice behaviors from class and social settings
- Record observations as soon as possible
- Look for the positive
- Look for the developmental

Managing information about you as a leader:

Effective Feedback ...

- Makes information useful to others
- Allows you to replicate and improve performance
- Is developmental in nature
- Is direct
- Is behaviorally anchored
- Is non-evaluative

Public Learning...

“The fear of not looking good is one of the biggest/greatest enemies of learning. To learn we need to acknowledge that there is something we don’t know – and performing activities that we’re not good at”

~ Peter Senge
